

Broad-Based Black Economic Empowerment (BBBEE) Policy Procurement Policy

Black Economic Empowerment (BEE) was integrated with the tender rules and procurement policies to assist historically disadvantaged communities (HDC) and encourage affirmative procurement without compromising specifications, safety and standards.

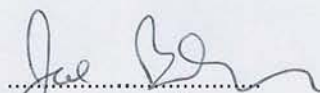

Jet Demolition (Pty) Ltd not only supports BEE, but also encourages other companies to ensure a level playing field in South Africa by removing the current inequalities in business. We prefer to do business with enterprises who share these same values.

In order to promote the development and support of suppliers and contractors from disadvantaged communities, Jet Demolition (Pty) Ltd decided that a large portion of the available total procurement (discretionary) expenditure is spent in such a manner that it advances Broad Based Black Economic Empowerment (BBBEE). This will be done by setting targets at various levels, which will include:

1. Strategic supply management strategy objectives
2. Affirmative procurement objectives
3. Best purchasing practices

We expect our suppliers to comply with BBBEE requirements. As a pre-condition to selection, a potential supplier must submit a valid BBBEE certificate and their detailed scorecard issued by an accredited rating agency. These shall form one of the critical criteria in the evaluation of BBBEE requirements.

Jet Demolition (Pty) Ltd will seriously reconsider continued business relationships with business enterprises that do not possess a BBBEE status of at least level 5. We therefore urge our suppliers to have themselves rated by an accredited rating agency in accordance with the latest Codes of Good Practice (Generic Scorecard) as issued by the Department for Trade and Industry (DTI) or the latest Sectorial Charters.
